

Developmental Disabilities Resource Center

DDRC Behavioral Health Team Training

Intro to Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA) in the Home and Community

Date: Thursday November 15th 2018

Time: 9:00 – 3:00 (lunch not included)

Location: DDRC Main Building at 11177 W. 8th Ave. Lakewood, CO 80215

Cost: FREE to register, but space is limited

This training will provide a better understanding as to the process of how human behavior is created, maintained, and improved. The training should help staff, caregivers, and family make a quick decision for possible behavior motivation. The training will also provide added understanding to the behavioral principles already outlined in behavior plans. After the training, attendees will be able to identify key elements needed to improve behavioral supports and provide a more rounded behavioral support themselves. The training will include the foundations of behavior, prevention strategies, and intervention strategies. This training does not include physical restraint management. There is a minimum of 5 attendees required to hold the training.

Trainer: This training is conducted by DDRC's Behavioral Health Team Manager - Zach Maple. Zach is a Board Certified Behavior Analyst and Licensed Professional Counselor. Zach has been working in the field of behavior analysis since 2008 and has experience working with multiple populations within the lifespan. He has also published research in the application of ABA interventions.

Target Audience: This training will be best suited for parents or caregivers in the community that are waiting to receive behavioral supports, need minimal behavioral supports, or want to learn more about ABA. This is not a college level course and should be attended to learn about the basic foundation/interventions. Attendees could include: parents, caregivers, residential staff, day program staff, teachers, respite providers

Please contact Zach Maple, Behavioral Health Team Manager, for more information or to register at

303-462-6503 or zachary.maple@ddrcco.com